Newkirk, Mr. Goodrich, Burton, Masterson, Child, Fred Geerke, Geo. [illegible], George Brins, J. A. Edgar, Charlie [illegible] and John Tennis. A large number were wounded, several of whom will undoubtedly die. The bodies of four of the killed were burned. There are at least 25 still missing.

Later information says four more bodies have been found and two of the wounded have since died. The ruins of buildings are on fire, threatening the total destruction of the whole town.

Gordon gets a Gold Medal.

The Democratic members of the South Carolina legislature have resolved to present Senator Gordon with a gold medal as a memento of their appreciation of his services in obtaining the recognition of Hampton by the Administration. It is notable that although Gordon has been a warm supporter of the President's Southern policy, and has recommended numerous persons for appointment to federal offices in Georgia, up to this time the President has not appointed a single one of those recommended by him.

Thirty Lives and a Vessel Lost.

New York, June 2.—The World says a dispatch is received announcing the loss off [illegible] Island of the Emily Smith with 30 of her passengers and crew.

A Train of Cars Thrown from the Track.

St. Louis, June 3.—As the express train on the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad reached a point near Woodend station, 60 miles from St. Louis, last night, the engineer saw obstructions on the track, and instantly applied the brakes, but not quickly enough, for before reaching the spot where the obstruction was, the engine and baggage car left the track and plunged down an embankment 40 feet high. Samuel Richardson, fireman, and E. L. Atkinson, who were on the engine, were instantly killed, and Frank Caton, engineer, was badly wounded and died in two hours. Conductor Wilson heard pistol shots, and a ball passed through his hat. Several other shots were fired, and the passengers say [illegible] men standing near, who were visible by flashes from their pistols. On examining the track it was found that the [illegible] connecting the rails on each side of the track had been unjointed and one of the rails moved so that the train would run down the embankment. There is no doubt that a diabolical scheme has been planned to run the whole train down the bank, rob the express and plunder the passengers. No clue to the perpetrators of the [illegible].

Weather.

New York, June 4.—Refreshing showers to-day with prospect of more. Weather [illegible] thermometer over 90°. Hundred [illegible] visited Central Park yesterday.

An Old Rock.

New York, June 4.—William O. Tripler, who claims to have lived ten years near where the steamer City of San Francisco went down, says to the Herald that the rock on which she struck has been known for years. He informed most of the old captains on the Pacific Mail line of its existence himself. In 1862 the ship Tarlar went in search of it, and found and made a report of it. It is seven or eight miles W. S. W. from what are known on the coast as the Bajos de San Nicolas, St. Nicholas shoals. It is never quite exposed, but in rough weather the sea breaks heavily on it. It appears to be a solitary rock with deep water all around it. In 1859 or 1860, the steamship Washington, on her way from Panama to San Francisco, struck on it and after her arrival at San Francisco and being docked a large piece of the rock was found sticking in her bottom.

A Sharp Boy Thief.

New York, June 4.—The National Exchange Bank was robbed of a package containing $10,000 Saturday afternoon. A young boy entered the bank and made some inquiries of the cashier, which necessitated the latter's opening the safe, and while his back was turned for a moment the boy got away with the money.

In the Courts.

The trial of Peter B. Sweeney was begun this morning in the supreme court.

Josephine M. Veith administratrix for [illegible] Veith, has brought an action in the Brooklyn supreme court for the recovery of $5,000 against Sheridan Shook and Albert M. Palmer, lessees of the late Brooklyn Theater, for the loss of Veith's life during the great theater fire.

Postal Telegraphy.

Chicago, June 4.—W. H. Price, electrician, and [illegible], manager of the postal telegraph [illegible], are in this city obtaining information in regard to telegraphs in this country. They have visited all the principal eastern cities, and have already obtained much valuable information. The result of their investigations will be embodied in a report to [illegible].

An Insult to our Flag.

Key West, June 4.—The American whaling schooner Ellen Rizpah, of Providence, Mass., [illegible]. While taking oil on the [illegible] coast of Cuba, she was boarded by a Spanish cruiser and the captain's papers demanded under penalty of punishment. Capt. [illegible] produced his papers, but they were considered insufficient and he was detained four days in close confinement until the arrival of a Spanish frigate.

Printers in Council.

Louisville, June 4.—The twenty-fifth annual convention of the National Typographical Union commenced a six days' session here to-day.

A Lofty Railroad.

Mr. Jay read a letter from Secretary Sherman asking that they investigate the salaries of custom house officers not fixed by law and report a plan of equitable adjustment; also to report on a revision of customs revenue laws which have been complained of. Eaton read a document containing the views of members of the Chamber of Commerce and merchants on the remedies required. They recommend:

1. The abolition of naval offices.
2. Oaths and entries to be made before any notary public or commissioner.
3. Abolition of triplicate invoices.

7. The change from ad valorem to specific duties.
8. Repeal of the present law authorizing government on detaining one package in every ten or one package in each invoice to allow importers to take oaths to package on executing bonds and the substitution in lieu of that provision allowing the government to retain in its discretion the whole or any portion of an invoice for a period not exceeding ten days, after which the entire invoice or portion so retained shall be deliverable to the merchant.

17. No charge whatever to importers for cartage or other expenses on goods for consumption.
18. Simplify the law for discharging export bonds.
19. Greater facilities for withdrawal by buyer of goods purchased while in bond.
20. Provides that when judgments recovered against collectors for duties paid under protest the government shall also pay interest and costs the same as other deficients.

22. Let entries be taken entire charge of by the custom house from time of the presentation to payment of duty on permit for bonding.
23. An adequate system of appraisement at different points, so like goods shall pay duty at all custom houses.
24. Abolition of the fee of $10 on appraisements.
25. Let reappraised goods be bonded.
26. Increased dispatch in reappraising merchandise.
27. No duty should be charged on goods burned or lost while in bonded warehouses.
28. Goods procured otherwise than by purchase should be invoiced at actual market value at the period of exportation.
29. Greater prudence should be exercised in disturbing rates of duty when once fixed by the Treasury Department.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The Hayes-Garfield Letter.

Washington, June 3.—Mr. A. M. Gibson, Washington correspondent of the New York Sun, has addressed a card to the general agent of the Associated Press in answer to the card from General Garfield denying the authenticity of a letter recently published in the New York Sun, purporting to be a letter of the President to General Garfield. Gibson says it was not pretended that the letter, as published in the Sun, was a literal copy, but substantially a correct version of it. The intention of General Garfield, as his letter plainly shows, was to deny that any such letter as the one published in the Sun, was ever written him. I maintain that there was, and that General Garfield deliberately suppresses the truth in his card, which is as bad as willfully uttering a falsehood. The letter written to Gen. Garfield by the President was shown by him to a score of persons within a few hours after he received it, and among those favored with its perusal were three reputable correspondents.

Retailers' Relief.

New York, June 3.—The World's special from Washington says because of the embarrassments to retail business interests some leading business men intend appealing to the Secretary of the Treasury to rescind the recent order substituting silver for one and two dollar legal tender notes.

Condition of Matters in the South.

The Times has a special from South Carolina and Mississippi showing that Republicans are persecuted in those States, and no white dare pronounce himself a Republican.

The Civil Service Discussed.

The Times' editorial thinks, with few exceptions, the civil service reform is a failure. It continues: We confess to a feeling of profound disappointment at the tardiness of the President in devising and enforcing a system of appointments which shall absolutely exclude the evil influences that have prevailed. The country had a right to expect from his repeated voluntary assurances that the reformation of the public service would be one of the first and chief objects to receive the attention of his administration. The reform element of the country, to which he must chiefly look for support, is in no mood to be put off with petty sentiments or glittering generalities. Enemies of the public service are only to be routed by a direct attack. The fusilade of fine words will not daunt them in the least. The President has made a mistake in temporizing. He can repair the error only by forthwith adopting a system of appointments which shall proceed by exact and rigid methods, which shall open the public service to competition, not to petty politicians and bummers, but to all honorable men who chose to enter the list, which shall protect the public officer in his position so long as his personal character remains untarnished and the performance of his duties satisfactory, which shall, in short, make the public service honorable, efficient and permanent.

Ord's Opinion of the Mexican Raids.

New York, June 4.—A special to the World from Washington says General Ord does not think the Mexican raids have been exaggerated either in number or importance. The Mexican border is over 1,200 miles long, and many raids are never heard of through the press. Twenty or thirty persons have been killed during eight months, and the raids are increasing.

The Utah Troubles.

New York, June 4.—The World's Washington special says: Gen. Crook, now here, has been requested to investigate the Utah troubles. Sheridan thinks they are greatly exaggerated and no troops are required.

Hayes Junior.

The President goes to Boston on the 17th to witness the graduation of his son from Harvard law school.

Decisions in Land Matters.

Washington, June 3.—Copp's Land Owner for June, reports a decision of the Interior Department in substance as follows:

The burden of proving that land in dispute excepted from railway grants is upon him who affirms the existence of valid pre-emption claim thereto at the date the grant took effect. He must show that the pre-emptor not only initiated a prior valid settlement but that he possessed all the required personal qualifications for filing of record, the prima facie evidence of valid right as against the railway, and to secure a tract proper evidence must be furnished by the company to show that the pre-emption claim was abandoned or invalid at the time the right of road attached. After lands have been offered at public sale and then withdrawn, they may be restored to homestead and pre-emption entry. Until they have again been offered at public sale, they are not subject to private entry.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office has a right to correct what he considers an erroneous decision without first giving notice of such intention to attorneys of record in the case, but as a matter of courtesy such notice should be given when the interests of the government will not be injured.

A deputy mineral surveyor must enter into bonds with two or more sureties in the sum of $10,000 for the faithful discharge of his duties. In the survey of mining claims a survey under mining acts does not withdraw the land entered thereby from sale or subsequent survey unless followed by an application for patent. A party having no interest in mining application but standing in the relation of amicus curiæ, friend of court, has no right of appeal from any decision in the case.

The Cuban Army.

New York, June 4.—The Times' Washington special says Gen. Sanquily of the Cuban army, recently here, said the Cuban army was from 15,000 to 17,000 strong. Three times that number could be put in the field if he had arms and ammunition. With proper artillery and assistance 20,000 Americans could utterly destroy the Spanish army. The Spanish forces number 140,000, of whom 12,000 are in the hospital. Cubans command the country outside of cities determined to attain liberty at all hazards.

Court of Claims' Decision.

Chicago, June 4.—The Journal's Washington special says the Court of Claims to-day decided that a person suspended from office under the tenure of office act during a recess of the Senate and who was afterwards restored to his office by reason of the Senate refusing to consent to his suspension is not, but the person who is appointed to fill the office during said suspension is, entitled to the salary.

Commissions Signed.

Washington, June 4.—The President has signed the commission of Wm. Ware Peck to be associate justice of the supreme court of Wyoming, and T. Gaines to be U. S. district attorney for Montana.

Ord's Instructions.

Chicago, June 4.—The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says: Secretary McCrary says the letter instructing General Ord concerning Mexican troubles expresses the deliberate and carefully formed determination of the President and Cabinet. It means neither annexation nor war, but means speedy and effective suppression of Mexican raids across the border at any cost. It is by no means the object of the President, as some charge, to stir up outside troubles in order to attract attention from internal affairs. He never thought of such a thing.

Increase of Postal Business.

Washington, June 4.—The daily requisitions upon the third assistant postmaster-general for postage stamps and stamped envelopes lately, show a steady increase indicative of the marked revival of business throughout the country. To day exclusive of postal cards, the by requisitions filled the department aggregated 6,317,200 stamps and stamped envelopes of various denominations with a face value of $147,750.

Democrats Threaten to Endorse Hayes.

John G. Thompson, of Ohio, is here, and says the Democrats will indorse Hayes at the coming convention, and will carry the State. Hayes' policy is in harmony with Democratic principles.

A Senatorial Purchase.

Senator Conkling's recent visit here is said to be for the purpose of purchasing a residence, for which he paid twenty thousand dollars.

OREGON.

Hunters are bringing elk meat into Salem. They kill the animals on the upper Santiam.

A few days ago, the stage in coming from La Grande to Umatilla, passed one hundred and three wagons, loaded with wheat and flour. Freighters are getting one cent per pound.

Dr. Langdon Caldwell, a dentist of Corvallis, was killed last Friday afternoon near that place by being thrown from a horse. He was a young man of fine reputation, and formerly lived at Oregon City.

Eight of the Chinese who, with guns and pistols, captured three white men, pending some trouble about water rights on Granite creek, not long ago, have been bound over at Canyon City to await the action of the grand jury.

The Register and Receiver at Linkville, Lake county, report in favor of removing the land office to Lakeview, for the reason that the location of the office at the latter place would better accommodate that section of country.

June 1st a great temperance picnic was held on the summit of Knox's Butte, Linn county. There was a large turn out. Rev. J. F. DeVore delivered an eloquent address, and the total abstinence pledge was taken by nearly all present.

A cold water picnic is to be held at Roberts' bridge, in Linn county, on the 16th and 17th of this month. It is to be a basket meeting, and everybody is invited to come and bring their baskets well filled. Many of the best temperance speakers in the State are expected to be present.

Salem Record: The least successful crop ever known in Oregon was that of 1876, when the too abundant rains of winter injured the fall sown wheat. So it would appear that while California suffers from frequent summer drouths we have never lost yield of cereals except from a plethora of rains.

On Sterling creek, Jackson county, parties from Portland have purchased several hundred acres of mining ground, paying therefor $25 000. A ditch twenty-four miles long will be constructed, which will carry three thousand inches of water. The Times guesses the cost will be from $50,000 to $75,000.

At Spanish Gulch, Grant county, the other day, John Kirk, while out hunting, saw a rattlesnake run under a rock. He pulled the fellow out by the tail, but, being rather slow of motion, was bitten on the hand, when he whipped out his hunting knife and cut out the part that was bitten and sucked the blood for some time. He recovered, but the snake didn't.

THE TERRITORIES.

The Herald at Tacoma will start a daily morning paper. That town must be looking up.

Wm. Drew was the name of the Kanaka who shot "Negro Bob" at the Sound. He is under arrest.

An establishment for the manufacture of wooden ware is to be started at Tacoma. The proprietors are Iowa men.

During May Seattle shipped 9,536 tons of coal, and from January 1st to June 1st, 50,176 tons, all to San Francisco.

Lewis Foster, who killed Philip L. Hawley at Walla Walla has been adjudged insane and will be sent to the asylum at Steilacoom.

Samuel A. Black, the new superintendent of the Northern Pacific Railroad, Pacific division, is now in command from Kalama to Tacoma.

At Walla Walla the other day potatoes jumped from one dollar to three dollars a hundred. Farmers all have wheat on the brain and are likely to neglect the potato crop.

Messrs. Long & Ryan crossed Snake river the other day with 3,300 head of cattle, going East. The cattle were bought in Eastern Oregon and Washington and will be driven to Nebraska and sent on from there by rail.

The Idaho Statesman manifestly has a spite toward Judge Lewis, of Washington Territory. It discusses the forged resignation thus: Upon the hypothesis that "Old Necessity" was really resigned from office in Idaho, nothing could be more preposterous than the proposition that the same enemy repeated the process upon him in Washington Territory after the lapse of so many years. The only possible explanation of these mysterious resignations is that he resigned himself, or got himself resigned in both cases: in the first case, to be freed from an untenable position, where he could no longer endure the contempt and the taunts of an outraged people; and in the second to excite sympathy at Washington, and to forestall the action of those who were seeking to get rid of him.

THE WAR IN THE EAST.

Austro-Turkish Diplomacy.

London, June 3.—A telegram from Constantinople says Austria recently sent a note to the Porte demanding a written declaration that the restrictions on the navigation Danube shall not last a day longer than the war, or be increased or form a precedent. The Porte and Russia have both sent the declaration required.

Turkish Chambers.

The Chamber of Deputies voted in favor of the abolition of the press bureau and of making inquiry into extraordinary expenditures.

Russia's Plan after Peace.

Berlin, June 4.—It is reported from Vienna that Russia's programme on the conclusion of peace will be self-government for Bosnia, Herzegovina, Bulgaria and the Christians of Lebanon, European governors, a European commission of control, European garrisons for some time, and cession of territory in Armenia.

Turbulent Turks.

Athens, June 4.—Intelligence has been received from Constantinople that after the proclamation of a state of siege about 200 of Midhat Pasha's adherents were summarily arrested and imprisoned. The thoughts of many people are turning towards ex-Sultan Murad. They know his health is greatly improved, and that if he appeared in public the people would demand his restoration. Murad has applied for permission to go to his country residence at Scutari. The Sultan is greatly embarrassed, as the situation is one of great delicacy and peril. It is feared the people will rise in many parts of the country. If they do so they will triumph, unless revolting severity is used.

A Russian Move.

The Russians are advancing in force toward Diarbikir.

It is said the Russians lost 3,000 men in recent attacks on Kars.

Schouvaloff's Mission.

The Times' Vienna correspondent sends the following confirmation of the reports from Paris in regard to Count Schouvaloff: Count Schouvaloff is supposed to be the bearer of an answer to Lord Derby's note. It seems Russia has taken advantage of the occasion to declare that she is still in the position previously held by her and has only taken up arms for the amelioration of the condition of the Christians. Besides these general assurances the answer is said to contain special assurances about Constantinople. The correspondent enumerates the terms which Russia is reported to desire. They are similar to those of the programme given in the preceding Berlin dispatch. The Times' correspondent continues: This scheme has only interest so far as it shows what in Russian circles would be deemed fair conditions of peace.

A Terrible Slaughter.

A correspondent of the Telegram sends the following under date of Erzeroum, June 2: I have to record the most terrible event of the present war. Two nights ago 4,000 Circassian cavalry, commanded by Monsha Pasha were ordered to proceed to Kars entirely unsupported by infantry or artillery. They rested for a night at Bekli Ahmed. The Russians secretly organized a powerful force and during the night surrounded and surprised the village in which the Circassians had halted. Only about five per cent. of the entire force of 4,000 Circassians escaped the carnage which followed. Monsha Pasha himself is among the missing. The Circassians fought desperately and no quarter was given.

Russian Retreat before a Greater than Turkey.

Rutschuk, June 2.—On account of the rising of the river it has been necessary to evacuate the entrenchments to the west of Oltenitza and upon islands in the Danube.

The Bulgarian Legion.

Bucharest, June 3.—The Bulgarian legion, forming at Ploiesta, numbers 5,000. Preparations have been made to add cavalry and artillery so as to make a complete organization.

Erzeroum's Defenses.

Erzeroum, June 3.—Preparations are being made here for the defense of the town.

At Bucharest.

Bucharest, June 3.—The Czar, Czarowitch and Grand Duke Vladimir have arrived here.

The Peace Rumors.

Vienna, June 3.—The ministerial papers of Vienna and Pesth differ concerning the peace rumors. The Fremdenblatt considers them idle dreams.

A Turkish Advance.

A dispatch to the Times from Danilograd states that the bulk of the Turkish forces at Port Gritza, about 15 battalions, has advanced to Spuz, probably with the intention of attacking Sogaru.

Suliman Pasha, Turkish commander in Herzegovina, has received considerable reinforcements. A hard fight is expected at Krustag.

A Village Destroyed.

Four thousand and fifty insurgents and Montenegrins attacked the village of Stozon on the 31st of May and destroyed the village. The Turkish loss was 148 killed. The Montenegrins lost 11 killed and 10 wounded.

A Fight Expected Near Nicsic.

Vienna, April 4.—An engagement is expected near Nicsic. The bulk of the Montenegrin forces and their whole artillery have come to some place above Nicsic.

Sick Men in the Turkish Army.

London, June 4.—A dispatch from Oreiluk to the Times says a Christian doctor, who deserted from Trebinje, gives a gloomy account of the condition of the army. Two thousand five hundred men have died at Trebinje since the campaign began; that they have the hospital department of the army now concentrated at Gatchecо, which consists of 80 battalions of 300 to 400 men each. Of these at least one-half were suffering, chiefly from scurvy. There is also much dysentery. Physicians and surgeons are subject to fanatical outbreaks of Mussulmen, and are continually menaced with assassination and never paid. Three thousand men are sick at Mostar, and deserters from Podgoritza report the same condition of affairs prevailing there. The troops are underfed, having nothing beyond the barest means of subsisting life. They are compelled to work continuously on earthworks.

The health of Montenegro's force is excellent, and the hospitals are quite empty.

Probable Attack on Kalafat.

Bucharest, June 4.—Information received by this government leads to the belief that Osmer Pasha intends attacking Kalafat in force.

The Danube Still Impassable.

Bucharest, June 4.—The Danube is still impassable. It is estimated that it will scarcely be possible to cross for four weeks.

How the World is Given to Lying.

London, June 4.—The story of the destruction of Monsha Pasha's Circassians is a gross exaggeration. The Russian official account says the Circassians were dispersed, losing 83 killed out of a total of 4,000 engaged, which is much more probable than that 4,000 irregulars said to be engaged were slaughtered.

The Campaign in Asia Settled.

The Standard's Constantinople correspondent says the fate of the campaign in Asia is practically settled. Mukhtar Pasha is about to fall back on Erzeroum, which is wholly open and cannot be helped. The Russians are advancing in force towards Diarbekir, and there is nothing to prevent them from getting possession of the Euphrates valley. Reports from British sources concerning the Danube army are, on the other hand, exceedingly hopeful. Notwithstanding this sort of pressure, British intervention seems at present the most unlikely thing in the world. The only dangers now apparent to prevent the localization of the war are the participation of Servia and Greece. The first of these might precipitate Austrian intervention, and the second might give rise to outrages and disturbances in Epirus, Thessaly and Crete, such as would render the intervention of the Western powers imperative on the score of humanity.

Report Discredited.

London, June 4.—The Times discredits the report that the Russians have forced the Sulina mouth of the Danube, giving various cogent reasons therefor.

Grecian War Feeling.

Athens, June 4.—At a meeting of 8,000 persons at the Stadium last night, a resolution was adopted declaring a necessity for forming a ministry of leaders of the respective parties so that dissensions in the Chamber may be avoided, and that the government carry forward military preparations promptly and energetically. A deputation nominated by the meeting waited upon the party leaders, urged united action and requested in each case that a distinct reply be made public.

Turkish War Movements.

Constantinople, June 4.—Announcement is made that Mukhtar Pasha has established his headquarters at Henlprica, about 30 miles east of Erzeroum, for the purpose of barring the advance of the Russian left wing from Toprak Kaleh. Ismail Hatki, commandant at Erzeroum, has taken position near Kisil Kissala between Bardez and the Soguiahti pass, to meet the Russian center and right, advancing via Saghanli and Oltiz.

Russia Would Avoid Extremes.

Brussels, June 4—Le Norde, the Russian organ, publishes a letter from St. Petersburg, which says if, after crossing the Danube, Russia is able to conclude a peace and at the same time realize her programme, and if the powers adopt toward Turkey an attitude sufficiently firm to complete the lesson received from the arms of Russia, then an equitable and dignified peace might be arranged and the necessity of pushing the war to extremes be avoided.

Russian Retreat Reported.

Constantinople, June 4.—The Turks claim they have driven the Russians from the neighborhood of Sukum Kaleh 30 hours' march in the direction of Mount El Brou.

Turks Repulsed.

Vienna June 4.—A dispatch to the Political Correspondence from Ostrak reports that the Prince of Montenegro has effected a junction with the corps under Gen. Vukovitz, which holds Duga Pass. The Turks tried to prevent the junction but were repulsed.

A dispatch from Erzeroum says it is confirmed that the scouts belonging to the Russian center column patrol as far as Soghanli mountains.

The Turkish headquarters have fallen back on Henpkoi.

The vanguard of the Russian right wing has passed Otti and Kisilkelissa.

Constantinople, June 3.—The arrival of the Russian forces at Soghanlu and Kisilkelissa, brings two strong Russian columns within six hours march of Erzeroum.

Intelligence has been received that Mukhtar Pasha is falling back on Ziam. The army is considered to be in a grave position.

The Tagblatt hears from a good source that a Russo-Greek alliance has been arranged for war.

Vienna, June 4.—The Standard's correspondent has the best authority for stating that Sabdoulla Bey, the new Turkish ambassador to Berlin, left Constantinople Saturday with instructions regarding the course to be pursued if the mediation of Germany is offered at the latter stage of the war.

Mehmed Reuhdi Pasha has an audience with the Sultan. He is regarded as the coming grand vizier.

A conspiracy has been discovered in Belgrade against Prince Milan and in favor of the Prince of Montenegro. Many members of the Omlinado have been arrested. Serious events are likely to follow.

French Politics.

Paris, June 3.—A conspicuous note in the Moniteur announces that on the 16th the government will meet the interpellation on President MacMahon's message, and after a vote, will call on the House to discuss the budget. If the House refuse, the government will apply to the Senate for permission to dissolve the Chamber.

Paris News Items.

Paris, June 3.—Twenty-one administrative appointments and six dismissals are gazetted.

An article in the semi official Moniteur is interpreted as affirming the government's intention to dissolve the chamber.

A violent article in the Le Pays openly recommending a coup d'etat under certain circumstances causes much comment.

Grant in England.

London, June 4.—Gen. Grant and Minister Pierrepont attended services at Westminster Abbey yesterday, and listened to a sermon by Dean Stanley. In the course of his sermon he said Gen. Grant has just laid down the sceptre of the American commonwealth, after having by military powers, and still more by generous treatment of his comrades in victory and enemies in defeat, restored unity to a great and divided people. England welcomes him as a pledge that the two nations of the Anglo Saxon race are still one in heart and spirit.

Bank of Germany.

Berlin, June 4.—The weekly statement of the Imperial Bank of Germany shows a decrease of 5,300,000 marks.

Bank of England.

London, June 3.—Amount of bullion gone into the Bank of England on balance to-day, £70,000.

Papal Jubilee.

Rome, June 3.—The Pope to-day, at the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of his elevation to the episcopate, received about 5,000 pilgrims, mostly Italians.

London, June 3.—The Pope's jubilee was celebrated in Ireland with great solemnity. A religious procession passed through the streets in several cities.

New York, June 3.—The semi-centennial of the consecration of Pope Pius IX as archbishop of Spoleta was celebrated to-day at St. Patrick's Cathedral. Solemn high mass was celebrated.

Dispatches from various quarters report that Catholics generally celebrated the Pope's golden jubilee with appropriate and impressive ceremonies.

At The Vatican.

Rome, April 4.—After the reception of the Italian pilgrims yesterday, the Pope was somewhat indisposed, and retired and would see no one else.

At the ceremony at San Pietre in Vincoli there were present 100 bishops and representatives of France, Portugal, Belgium, Bavaria and Brazil.

The Pope's Health.

Rome, June 4.—The Pope had to be withdrawn yesterday from the audience on account of exhaustion, and returned only after repose. The doctors have decided that deputations in the future be consolidated, and the Pope be carried through to avoid excitement and fatigue of receiving them in detail.

Italian Troops Reviewed.

Twelve thousand troops of the garrison were reviewed yesterday in Rome by King Victor Emanuel, who received large crowds of Senators, Deputies, etc. The city was illuminated at night, and the streets thronged to a late hour.

Burial of Motley.

London, June 4.—The remains of the late John Lothrop Motley were interred to-day in a grave beside that of his wife, who was buried in Kensal Green cemetery in 1875. Dean Stanley read the burial service.

Portuguese Rebellion.

Peruvian Pirates.

London, June 4.—The following has been received at the admiralty from the commander-in-chief of the Pacific station:

Iquique, June 1st.

The Peruvian rebel turret ship Harasar committed piratical acts against British subjects. Her Majesty's ships Shah and Amethyst engaged her in Ilo on the 29th of May. She escaped after dark, but was so badly damaged as to surrender to the Peruvian squadron. There were no British casualties.

London, June 4.—10 40 bonds, 108½; new 5s, 107½; Erie, 6; N. Y. C., 87½.

President of the French Council Arrested.

Paris, June 4.—There is excitement in consequence of the arrest of Duverdier, President of the Municipal Council. It is quite legal, but most unusual to arrest people for an offence by writing or speech. Offenders in this way are generally left at liberty till trial, even without bail. In this case even bail was refused. Duverdier denies the charges against him. The impression produced is bad, as the prisoner is popular with the lower class. He is a man of education and independent means. He is charged with insulting Marshal McMahon and inciting civil war and assassination.

Out of Office.

Paris, June 4.—M. Habenck, Republican, who was at the head of the press service connected with the exhibition of 1878, has been dismissed from his office.

Stock Exchange Suspended.

San Francisco, June 3.—The Nevada Stock Exchange at executive session on Saturday concluded, in consequence of the extreme dullness of the stock market, to suspend operations for the present. Forty-five members were on the active list, and should the market improve and warrant the board in resuming active operations again at some future day, the temporary adjournment will not affect the condition of the board.

Suicide.

San Francisco, June 3.—Last night an unknown man took lodgings at No. 115 Second street. This morning he was discovered in bed partially dressed and dead. A bottle that had contained strychnine stood on the bureau, also a slice of cake from which a piece had been bitten, the remainder having strychnine on it. In the pocket of the deceased was found the following note:

My name is Marcus Golinger. I am tired of living; for it is too hard to live. I am a Jew, and wish to be buried in a Jewish cemetery.

Another paper containing some writing in Hebrew characters was also found in his pocket. Deceased was about 30 years of age.

The Wrecked Passengers.

The passengers of the wrecked steamer City of San Francisco, who arrived to-day by the steamer Costa Rica, are in an extremely destitute condition, and it is probable action will be taken to provide for their urgent necessities. Their accounts add nothing material to previous reports of the disaster.

Went out with the Tide.

San Francisco, June 3.—Two cases of drowning, accompanied by an act of heroism, were witnessed at 7 o'clock last evening at the end of Long wharf, Oakland Point. David Byrnestein, of 10 years, a son of J. Byrnestein, furniture dealer, had been fishing from the end of the wharf, and at the hour named fell into the bay. Frank F. Hodgin, night watchman at the wharf, a young married man, saw the boy fall, and stripping himself sprang into the water to save him. This act was observed by railroad employes, who hastily lowered and manned a boat for the rescue, but by the time they were getting under full headway they saw young Hodgin with the boy on his back going out with the tide and finally disappear in the water.

Murderers Sentenced.

Eureka, June 4.—A Hamilton special to the Sentinel says the White Pine murderers were sentenced to-day as follows: Roach for life, Leonard 10 years, Crawford 7 years.

THE WARD MASSACRE.

A writer in the Idaho Statesman gives the following account of the massacre of the Ward party by Indians in Boise vally in 1860. They were emigrants on the way to Oregon, and the atrocity is known as the Ward massacre:

This whole region was a wilderness at the time, as it happened before the gold discoveries in Idaho. The emigrants were encamped in the valley near the bluff, entirely unconscious of danger, when they were suddenly surrounded and attacked by the Indians who murdered nearly the entire party. Two only escaped, and they had been left for dead. One of these was a lad named Ward, a son of the leader of the party. The survivors made their way down the valley to Old Fort Boise, on Snake river, where a company of U. S. troops were stationed at the time. A squad of soldiers accompanied them back to the scene of the massacre, collected the bodies of the slaughtered emigrants and buried them all, ten in number, in a single grave near the place of the murder. The soldiers captured several Indians in the neighborhood, erected a rude scaffold with holes upon the bluff, overlooking the scene, and hung them there. Young Ward was reclaimed and taken back to the States by his relatives, and after the lapse of several years, when the country had become settled, he visited the place. For several years he regularly revisited the scene at about the same time each year. He had but little to say to any one, but would sit upon the bluff for hours at a time and gaze in silence upon the spot where his friends had been murdered and buried. After a few days thus spent, he would disappear and nothing would be seen or heard of him until the following summer. For several years past he has ceased his visits. The people of this portion of the valley propose to inclose this spot and erect a monument over the grave.

The sheriff of Jefferson county, W. T., has taken a steamboat and a posse of men and is cruising around among the islands near the northern border in quest of Sutton, who killed Howard at Port Townsend. Five hundred dollars reward is offered.

The Brownsville brass band will be present at the grand temperance rally at Roberts' bridge on the 16th inst.

A JOURNALIST RETIRES.

Thos. B. Merry takes leave of the Seattle Dispatch. His withdrawal is owing to the indefiniteness of the agreement under which he bought the paper and to a series of misunderstandings growing out of it. During eight months he has performed the labor of two or three men, and has drawn for it out of the earnings of the paper the great sum of $273 82. Beriah Brown receives the paper back and it is supposed will undertake to continue its publication. Merry is a writer of uncommon merit. His articles have point, force and usually a flavor of pleasant and graceful humor. On retiring, he says this about the press of Washington Territory:

The fact is that the people of Puget Sound have become so used to personal organs and subsidized papers that they cannot, to this day, understand such a thing as a newspaper being run and conducted for a legitimate business avocation. The Intelligencer has and always will have the city and county printing; the Port Townsend Argus is owned by a man who makes his money out of a government hospital; the Bellingham Bay Mail's editor is pensioned off with a custom house inspectorship; the Steilacoom Express editor has a clerkship in a court; the Seattle Tribune's proprietor is postmaster at a salary of $1,600; the Courier is not alone kept up by the Territorial printing, but its editor is also collector of internal revenue; and the Walla Walla Union is edited by a receiver in a federal land office. Here then are seven papers, under pensions arising from political causes. What show has an independent, unsubsidized paper to compete with them? I like Washington Territory and I like most of the people in Seattle, and for the day when independent journals are the rule and personal organs the exception, your petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray!

WHAT OREGON PAPERS SAY.

Union Sentinel: It won't do to condemn his fraudulency, for then they would be a party without a President, a ship without compass, rudder or mast. Flaunting the bloody garment won't take a trick any more, since Hayes has placed a Confederate General in his cabinet.

Salem Statesman: The only good that could possibly arise from calling a convention to change the constitution would be to give an opportunity to increase the present debt; this, we think, hardly necessary, in view of the wonderful capacity in that line already developed by the present proficient officials.

Dalles Mountaineer: The fact is our people, as a general thing, are opposed to extending the time of the Northern Pacific land grant, as it keeps a large portion of land from being settled upon. There is no doubt but that the railroad will be the making of the country, but we would much prefer that they had received a subsidy of money instead of land.

Jacksonville Sentinel: The duty of the hour is as plain to every Republican and good citizen as that daylight succeeds darkness, and it is to "Stand by the President!" and in so doing there must be no hesitation or backwardness in giving him every encouragement and support in carrying out the policy which to him seems best in order to secure permanent peace for, and establish good order in the country.

NOTES FROM ALBANY.

Our regular correspondent sends the following items under date of June 3th:

Only one boarder in the city prison at this time.

Our streets are being graded and graveled in different parts of the city.

The Willamette river above this city is full of saw-logs that are running adrift.

The first lot of wool brought to this city this season was bought by Cohen at 25 cents.

Major White has a telephone in operation in this city, which is attracting some attention.

Foster's large brick, connected with his mill, will go up soon. Mr. Allen puts up the stone work.

About forty persons have united with the M. E. church in this place within the last few months.

Judge Bronaugh, of Portland, addressed a very large audience in the M. E. church at this place last Sabbath evening.

Mr. Myers, from Southern Oregon is here with two of his fine horses, and he proposes to make it profitable for the farmers who like large stock to call and see him.

One of those very pleasant entertainments where all may get the worth of their money will come off next Friday evening, the 8th inst., at the hall in Miller's block, in this city.

The cause of the Indian row last week was that of two Indian squaws, selling their third and younger sister to an Indian man for $20, and as the second sister wanted a part of the money, the row began, which, mixed with a little whisky, became serious; and had it not been for a white man among them, who had been stolen by the Snake Indians when eight years of age from the emigrants, and who is now 30 years old, there would have been bloodshed, and perhaps some lives lost.

THE UNDERSIGNED DESIRES INFORMATION concerning his brother, DENNIS WHITE. He was born in the town of Kilmacanogue, county of Wicklow, Ireland, and emigrated to the United States in 1858. He lived in Oswego county, N. Y., and worked with me for a man named F. H. Berry, a tanner; afterwards we went to Oneida county and worked for P. & P. Costello. I last saw Dennis White about three years ago as he was about starting for Ireland; since that time I have heard nothing from him. I came to Portland, Oregon, in September, 1875, where I still reside. Business of importance requires that I should know if my brother, Dennis White, is still alive. Any information can be addressed to me, care of Parrish & Cornell, Portland, Oregon. ("Irish World," N. Y. please copy.) [d6d&t] WILLIAM WHITE.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 5, 1877.

THE HAWAIIAN TREATY.

A paper of the small parasite class, known as the Argus, published under the shadow of of the custom house at Port Townsend, in order to gain the favor of the patron of custom houses at Washington City, attacks, with the manner of a blackguard, some remarks made by the OREGONIAN a few weeks ago on the effects of the Hawaiian treaty. Of course the penny whistle, blown by the custom house officials at Port Townsend, does not meet a single fact in our statement of the injurious consequences of the treaty. Every intelligent person on the Pacific coast knows that the treaty operates directly and solely in the interest of a sugar ring at San Francisco, which controls the plantations at the Islands. Every person knows, too, that this ring is making immense sums, that the government is losing a very large revenue, and that consumers are paying more for "free" sugars than they did a while ago for sugars subject to duty. At this port alone the loss to the revenue is one hundred and twenty thousand dollars a year, and at San Francisco it is many times as great. All this, and the increased price besides, amounting to fully as much more, is transferred by this treaty to the pockets of the sugar ring. The wholesale merchants of Portland, who have dealt largely in these sugars, but whose trade has been practically cut off by the treaty and transferred to the San Francisco ring, can answer fully for these facts. Every merchant knows that the effect of the treaty has been to enhance the price of sugars at the expense of consumers and the government.

But the organ of the Port Townsend custom house comes bristling with statements from the books of that port to justify the wisdom that executed the treaty. The prime object is to "vindicate" Senator Mitchell; in whom the custom house at that place lives, moves and has its being. Puget Sound sends more lumber than formerly to the Islands, and in return gets sugar free of duty, but at a higher price than was formerly paid for the dutiable article. Now the United States, if it had the revenue it ought to have from imports from the Islands, could afford to pay the profit made on every foot of lumber and on all excess of other products exported thither under the treaty, and have money left every year. The Puget Sound custom house does not represent quite all the commercial interests affected by this treaty; in fact, that custom house is one of a class that has always been a heavy expense to the government. A concern which is itself pensioned on the commercial interests of the country could well afford to cultivate a proper humility. Even its zeal for its patron and supporter, though proper allowance be made for it on the ground of interest and gratitude, can scarcely justify the boldness with which it inspires an article in defense of one of the principal agents through whom this swindle was perpetrated and this monopoly established. It is in order to inform the custom house at Port Townsend and the office-holding interests of Washington Territory generally that their solicitude for Senator Mitchell is altogether superfluous. The people of Oregon will look after his political fortunes. Had Mitchell and Sargent opposed the treaty as Booth did, it never could have carried. As it was, it got through by a close vote, and it only needed that the Senators from the Pacific States should take a stand against it and explain what its consequences would be. Booth did this, but he was alone. His words, however, have been verified in every particular.

Worst of all is the argument that if we had not made this treaty England would have obtained the Islands and possessed a naval station that would threaten the commerce of our coast in case of war. She already has an incomparable naval station at our very doors in the waters of British Columbia, with coal and timber in inexhaustible supply. As a naval station to threaten our coast England has now everything she could possibly desire, and if she possessed the Sandwich Islands the Port Townsend custom house would not be in a particle more danger than it is now.

THE QUALITY OF REFORM.

It must be admitted that the criticism by the New York Times of some of the President's professed efforts to reform the civil service has an incisiveness that can come only from plain statement of truth. How "very thin" civil service reform is before it reaches the Pacific slope has already been made a subject of remark. Though a great flourish has been made about reform at the East, and though the telegraph has spread it far and wide, yet the Times sees that it falls far short of what is actually demanded by the country, and has the courage to say so. That paper is universally known for accuracy of observation and carefulness of statement. We may, therefore, suppose that nearness of view lets it into clearer knowledge of the subject than we have been getting through the rosy generalities of telegraphic reports made up out of proceedings of civil service boards. When it says that political influence still controls, observers who take note of what is going on in California and Oregon need not be surprised. It was only the other day that Miss Van Lew, who has been postmaster at Richmond, Va., for a number of years and has served very faithfully and acceptably, was beaten by the hungry men politicians and ousted. An able bodied "worker" named Forbes gets the position. But it may be women ought not to be included in the new and improved system of civil service reform. Perhaps the administration considers their true place to be in company with "Indians not taxed."

They are coming from California. And one of the most suggestive sights in the world is the spectacle of a Californian, who hasn't before seen rain enough for a year to lay the dust, standing out in an Oregon rain with his hat off, and enjoying it as aquatic fowls do a summer shower. Oregon has been sneered at as the rainy country by California, but they are not sneering now. They are hunting a country where it rains enough, and prefer the verdure of Oregon to the blight and desolation of California. Persons now arriving tell us that immense numbers in California are preparing to move. As rapidly as they can they will come to our State. A great many are coming by wagons overland. A gentleman just through by the stage line informs us that in Northern California and Southern Oregon he passed a large number of parties, including families and live stock, moving north. At night their camp fires were seen continually from the stage road, and the sight is described as being like that of the early emigration across the plains. Every steamer is loaded to its full capacity by people who are seeking a country where crops never perish of drouth. To them, exaggerated reports of Oregon rains are no longer a terror. Our climate, they find, is preferable to drouth, deserts and starvation.

It is frankly confessed by the Virginia Enterprise that no man can accomplish anything by farming in Nevada, with the expectation of an outside market. "It is simply the patronage, which comes from the mines," says that paper, "which makes any farm in Nevada anything more than simply a stock range." Therefore when the limited home market for agricultural products is supplied, the farmer of Nevada has no further opportunity. But in truth the area of farming land in Nevada is extremely limited. There is little or nothing of the State but its stock range and silver mines. It has no future worth speaking of. If it possessed streams for irrigation it would be much more fortunate; but even this opportunity it has not, except to a limited extent. Nevada never will be a much greater State than now. Mines of precious metals alone never made a prosperous community. They are far less valuable as a basis of permanent wealth than mines of iron and coal.

Hungary, it is said, is very bitter against Russia, and wants to urge Austria into the war. It is because Hungarians remember how Russia stood forth as champion of absolutism in 1849, poured her armies through the passes of the Carpathian mountains, struck down the liberty of the Magyars, and saved the Austrian monarchy from overthrow. The Emperor Nicholas who did this lived long enough to repent it, and his successor may repent it more bitterly still. After Austria had joined the allied powers in the Crimean war, Nicholas walking one day in a public square at Warsaw, stopped before the statue of John Sobieski and said: "That man and I are the two greatest fools of modern history, for we both saved Vienna."

It is thought by the Salem Record that the government census of 1880 will show a population in Oregon of two hundred thousand. We are of opinion it will be larger. Last November the vote of the State was 30,000, which at the usual ratio would indicate a population of 150,000 at that time. It is certain that arrivals in the State were never before so numerous as now. This year we have a right to expect fully 25,000, and the number may reach 40,000. All advices from California indicate that there will soon be a very large movement from that State to Oregon; much larger than at present. People are making their preparations and will come as soon and as rapidly as they can.

Tony and Jimmy have worked up a little "confidence" scheme to get two hundred dollars. But they have called each other rascals and thieves so often, and have supported the charge with so much plausibility, that people are quite shy of them, especially when they go into partnership. Nobody is simpleton enough to trust such a precious pair of "dead-beats" with two hundred dollars for any purpose.

OFFICE OF INSURANCE COMMISSIONER,
San Francisco, Feb. 5, 1877.

I, J. W. Foard, hereby certify that I am Insurance Commissioner of the State of California, and have supervision of insurance business in the State, and as such Commissioner, further certify that the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company of California is a corporation properly organized under the laws of this State, and being in a solvent condition and possessed of a paid up capital of One Hundred Thousand Dollars, equal to Gold Coin of the United States, is authorized to do business in the State. And I further certify that, upon a personal examination of the books and papers of the said company at the close of the year eighteen hundred and seventy-six, its statement as of this date, and now on file in this office, was shown to be correct and true, the company being possessed of good, valid assets amounting to one million two hundred and sixty-four thousand eight hundred and thirty-six dollars and eighty-six cents ($1,264,836 86), and having outstanding liabilities, as defined by the laws of the State, amounting to nine hundred and sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars and five cents ($916,750 05), exclusive of the Capital Stock.

J. W. FOARD,
Insurance Commissioner.

[Extract from Report of A. D. Smith, ex-Deputy Insurance Commissioner.]

J. G. EDWARDS, Publisher Coast Review,

Dear Sir:—In pursuance of your request I have made an examination of the Assets and Liabilities of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company of California, as they existed on the 31st day of December, 1876, as shown by the books and papers of the Company, and as a result of such examination I beg to report as follows:

* * * * * * * *

Total Assets, Gold		$1,381,847 59
Re-Insurance Reserve, American Experience, 4½ per ct.	$886,031 49
Claims for Death Losses	28,700 00
Due on Account Salaries and Rents	2,019 02
Total Liabilities, Gold		916,750 51
Net surplus to Policy-holders Gold		$365,097 08
Company's paid-up Capital	$100,000 00

The above is, I believe a true and fair statement of the Company's condition Dec. 31, 1876.

In conclusion, I beg to say that I found the Company's business thoroughly systematized—its books and papers in excellent condition and neatly kept. Every facility was extended to me by all the officers and employees of the Company to enable me to make my examination thorough. Books, papers, and accounts were freely exhibited to me. There was no attempt to hold back or conceal anything. I am satisfied the Company courts the most rigid scrutiny. For courteous treatment, I beg to return thanks to the officers and attaches of the Company.

Respectfully submitted A. D. SMITH.
San Francisco, February 5, 1877.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 5, 1877.

CITY.

INTERESTING SERVICES.—The services at the Presbyterian Church last evening were well attended. Rev. H. P. Peck was assisted in the evening exercises by Rev. Dr. Geary, pastor of Eugene City. During the service it was announced that a member of the church was just passing away from earth, and the congregation invited to join in prayer in her behalf. Mr. Peck chose his text from Matthew, sixth chapter and verse—"Thy Kingdom Come." The sermon was a thoughtful, logical and eloquent presentation of the doctrine that there is a real kingdom of God; a kingdom with a real personal God as ruler; and this kingdom shall come in every heart and in all this world, in the reign of right liberty and love in every heart, and among all men. After the sermon, the Nez Perce preachers were introduced and entertained the audience with a hymn in their native tongue. Mr. Robert Williams then delivered a short but impressive sermon in English, after which Rev. J. R. Thompson, who is fresh from a visit to the hills of Idaho, gave a description of the religious operations among the Nez Perce people, showing what the gospel is doing, not only to Christianize, but to civilize and educate them. He affirmed that the Christian Indians are no longer wet "red heathen," for the paint of the savage is now washed off; they are well clothed, industrious, raise large quantities of wheat, and many of them live in comfortable houses, and more to the same effect. After the conclusion of Mr. Thompson's remarks the Indians sang, by request, the well known hymn, "The Old, Old Story," in English, the audience joining in the chorus, and Miss Emma Millard presided at the organ. The moderator then called the Presbytery to order, and on the roll being called it was found that there was not a quorum present. Presbytery then adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.

MAUSOLEUM AND CHAPEL.— Mr. Donald Macleay is having erected in Lone Fir Cemetery a very handsome and enduring improvement in the way of a chapel and mausoleum. Excavation was commenced several weeks ago, and the foundation has already been laid. The spot selected for this structure is located in the southeast corner of the cemetery proper, and commands a good view of the entire grounds. It will be built of stone and brick—principally the former. In architectural style it will be gothic, of the most elaborate design and finish. The form will be not unlike a Greek cross. The dimensions, as indicated in the plan, are 20x18 feet; height, 50 feet. The exterior of the mausoleum is to be built of stone, all fashioned into unique arches, curves and angles, highly polished, and the interior paneled with marble. The roof will be made of stone, and each of the four gables surmounted with a handsomely carved ornament. There are to be eight catacombs, where bodies can be laid away, and in the center of the structure is to be a chapel. In cost and elaborateness of design this mausoleum will not be surpassed on the coast. Messrs. Trewavas & Ballantyne have the contract for erecting this expensive structure, and are pushing the work forward as rapidly as possible. As the work is of an elaborate nature—each separate stone having to be chiseled into the required shape and then polished—it necessarily progresses slowly. It is thought the structure will be completed about the first of September. As soon as the mausoleum is finished, Mr. Macleay will remove all that is mortal of his late beloved wife to one of the catacombs, and there deposit the remains. Her grave is situated only a few rods south from where the structure will stand. The entire cost of the mausoleum will be in the vicinity of $13,500.

DEATHS.—Last evening, about 9 o'clock, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Doland, wife of W. P. Doland, departed this life after a brief illness. She was taken down a few days ago with pneumonia and after a short but painful struggle, quietly and peacefully yielded her life and passed away to another and higher world. Deceased was a kind wife and mother, and a most estimable and highly esteemed lady. Her death creates a void which will long be felt, and she leaves behind nought but the fairest memory of a pure and stainless life. Yesterday morning, at 7 o'clock, James Pilkington, Esq., father of Dr. John B. Pilkington, died in this city. Deceased was born in England in the year 1805, and with his three brothers came to this country in 1830, they being the first to introduce printing in four colors into the United States, establishing their business at Lowell, Massachusetts. He was an energetic business man and has led a life of usefulness and integrity. He has been in this State about a year and has made many friends during his short residence with us. He was almost 72 years of age at the time of his death.

DROWNED.—Sunday, a little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McKay, who reside in New Tacoma, fell into a small barrel partially filled with water and was drowned. The child was about fifteen months old. A small barrel was left standing at one corner of the house to catch rain water, and, when unnoticed, the little child toddled out and was amusing herself by looking over the top of the vessel. While looking at the water in the bottom of the barrel, the child lost her balance and fell in headfirst. There was only about six inches of water in the bottom, but it was sufficient to drown the child. Soon after the little truant was missed, and on searching she was found lifeless. It is said the mother is distracted with grief over the loss of her little daughter.

PUBLIC ACCOMMODATION.—An exchange says: "The new arrangement of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company works like a charm. They now keep a boat at the Lower Cascades from the time of her arrival until the boat reaches the same point from Portland the next day. This enables the employes to load the idle boat and have her in readiness to leave for Portland the moment the passengers from above are transferred. The arrangement insures the arrival of the boat at least four hours earlier in Portland. The same system will be inaugurated on the Astoria line, we understand, this fall."

AJAX DISABLED.—The steamship Ajax, which sailed from San Francisco for this port yesterday at noon, had not proceeded outside the heads when her steam pipes, which had just been repaired, again burst and she was compelled to return. Her freight and passengers were transferred to the Geo. W. Elder, and the latter vessel will leave for Portland on Wednesday (to-morrow).

THE INJURED MAN.—The unfortunate man who fell from the wharf at Astoria a few days ago, while the steamer Elder was lying there, and was seriously injured, is now at St. Vincent's hospital. He was considerably bruised and had one thigh bone fractured. Under the circumstances, the patient is doing well, although he will not be able to walk for some weeks.

HIBERNIAN PICNIC.—At a meeting of the Portland Hibernian Benevolent Society held last evening, M. Moynahan resigned the office of secretary of the society, and Thos. Kearney was chosen to fill the place. A committee was appointed to make preparations for holding a grand picnic, to be given by the society on the approaching Fourth of July.

To know the strength of evil, let him try to abandon it. It is all very well for a man to lament because he cannot afford to order a $50 suit, but rather useless when he can get a real splendid suit from $20 to $30, all very stylish, and will answer the same purpose, at

THE ASTORIA FIRE.

FULL PARTICULARS OF THE RECENT DESTRUCTIVE CONFLAGRATION AT THAT PLACE LAST SATURDAY.

To the energetic regular correspondent at Astoria, the OREGONIAN is indebted for the following details of the heavy fire at that place last Saturday:

"It is bound to come—and when it does come it will sweep the whole town." Such is the opinion I have heard expressed by denizens of this town after every alarm of fire which has occurred during the time I have resided here, now nearly four years. The absence of an efficient fire engine, and, as the natural result, no well disciplined fire department, fully justified the remark. And, yet, notwithstanding the rapid growth of the city, and the fastly increased value of taxable personal property within the corporate limits, absolutely nothing has been done of a public character to protect either the lives or the property of its citizens and tax payers from the devouring element.

Had the fire occurred in the night instead of on the afternoon of Saturday the 2d inst., destroying as it did two whole blocks of buildings and a portion of another, as an interested eye witness your correspondent has no hesitation in affirming that Astoria, from Kinney's cannery to the vacant water lots which divides the main business portion of the city including the Parker House, Captain Brown's block, Flavel's wharf, I. W. Case's new store the Occident Hotel, Ireland's new Astorian building and a number of other prominent recent constructions, would now be a heap of smouldering ruins.

The alarm of fire was heard shortly after 3 o'clock P. M. The continuous alarm blasts from the steam whistle attached to Kinney's cannery attracted everybody to that locality. In the block lying east and back of Kinney's were several saloons and houses of questionable repute—in the rear of one of these, either the "Snug" or "Forty nine," the fire originated, and in a short time both were completely enveloped in flames. Fortunately, Kinney Bros'. had very recently completed their steam pump and provided the hose necessary in case of fire on their own premises; this was immediately brought into use and did immense service not only saving their cannery, but also effectually preventing the fire from spreading to the west of the place in which it commenced. The Chinese boarding house belonging to the Kinneys being directly in the rear of the Forty-nine saloon was, however, consumed. The fire spread with amazing rapidity, (the wind blowing fresh from the southwest) consuming every building clear down to the beach, east from where it started; crossed the street, and soon another block was in flames. In the meantime the intense heat had fired the block on the south side of the street, and a general and total conflagration of this city seemed inevitable. Every team was brought into requisition, and all the merchants in the main part of the town commenced moving their goods as best they could to a place of safety. Boats and plungers received cargoes of valuable freight; heads of families, whose "home, sweet home," was threatened, (your correspondent included) mournfully, but hastily removed what they could of their households goods, and gods to a place of safety, and soon the green sward surrounding the custom house was covered with beds and bedding, and every variety of furniture, watched over by fair ones whose hearts sunk at the prospect of being burned out of house and home. A kind Providence, however, prevented the realization of the fears of many, though not of all.

The wind suddenly changed and blew almost directly toward the river. By this time, too, the old Astoria fire engine, under command of Councilman J. C. Trullinger, had been brought into a position where it could do some good. A stream was brought to play on Peter Runey's new building, which, after an ineffectual attempt to blow it up, was now on fire. But for this opportune assistance there is no doubt that the heat from Runey's building would have set fire to Gray's old building and Sibson & Hamilton's store on the next block; then the Parker House must have gone, and with it the whole city. Fortunately Runey's building was plastered throughout, was consequently much slower in burning, and the heat was not so intense as it would otherwise have been. Hundreds of anxious eyes watched with hearts alternating with hope and fear the result of the effort of Trullinger and his aids to smother the fire at this point, and when it was apparent that the feat was accomplished a heavy load was lifted from many a heart, and scores of little ones on the green sward, the place of refuge, clapped their hands and danced for joy.

To Capt. J. H. D. Gray and those who assisted him to extinguish the fire, which occurred in the block south of the Snug saloon, much credit is due, as it all probability, had it gained any further headway here, the result would have been equally disastrous.

During the excitement of the fire many of the houses and stores were entered and plundered by thieves, some of whom were caught in the act and speedily marched off to jail.

The town Council held a special meeting immediately after the fire was subdued and discussed the subject of organizing and equipping an efficient fire department. They also appointed a posse of special police to watch the town generally and the burnt district particularly for the night.

So fierce was the fire and so rapidly did it burn that large flakes of burning and charred timber fell so fast on the roof of Badollet & Co.'s cannery at upper town as to call their hose into requisition. Loss is estimated as follows:

M. Nowlen, 4 houses and shop	$1,000
H. B. Parker, stable and house	4,000
Sessions & St. Louis, saloon	2,000
M. Sessions, house furniture	600
I. Bergman, furniture, &c.	1,000
Geo B. McEwan, houses and furniture	3,000
Kinney Bros., China house	1,000
Peter Runey, house, stock and wharf	2,500
Forty-nine saloon	1,000
Other losses by fire and removals about	4,000
Total	$23,100

Very little insurance, probably not more than $2,000.

Various rumors are afloat as to the origin of the fire; it is generally conceived, however, that it was caused by children playing with matches among some shavings under the Snug or '49 Saloon.

Mothers, improve yourselves and daughters. Mrs. Emily Townsend, M. D., of Baltimore, says: "I have never found anything equal to Dr. Warner's Health Corset in restoring lost development of bosom in women, in enabling them to dress elegantly without impairing health, and enabling them to walk gracefully and easily. Benefits which cannot be secured by any other article of female attire, especially the nursing corset for mothers." Depot, Third street, near Morrison, Portland, Ogn.

TIDAL PHENOMENA AT HONOLULU.

A few days ago the steamer City of Sidney arrived at San Francisco from Honolulu, bringing intelligence of the tidal phenomena which were "painfully visible" to the inhabitants of the Hawaiian Islands. A telegraphic account of this tidal wave was published in the OREGONIAN, it will be remembered. This phenomenon was observed on the 10th of May. At that time the barkentine Jane A. Falkinburg, which is now at Weidler's mill, was lying in the harbor of Honolulu. The main force of the tidal wave was spent on the side of the island opposite Honolulu, but notwithstanding that, it shook up the shipping in port quite lively. The Falkinburg was pitched and tossed about for a short time. By the recession of the water, the bow of the vessel was left aground, and she had to be hauled back until deep water was reached. However, no damage resulted.

In the Commercial Advertiser of the 12th ult., the following account of the phenomena is given:

Early on Thursday morning last it was discovered that the tide in the harbor of Honolulu was running out to sea at a great rate, leaving the shore bare several feet lower than the usual low-tide mark. After an interval of about twelve minutes the water returned, and in much less time than it had occupied in running out it was apparently high tide at all points. But scarcely had the water reached its former height on the shore and along the wharves, than it began again to recede. And this pulsation continued all the forenoon and during the day, gradually decreasing in volume until it ceased. The usual tide was at ebb in the morning when the unusual phenomena were most marked, and an actual measurement gave four feet and ten inches as the extreme rise and fall, at a point inside the barbor and near the old custom house. Tidal phenomena of a similar character have been recorded on a number of occasions in these islands in past years. The last one before the present was on the 13th of August, 1868, when the phenomenon was observed all over the islands. At Honolulu, the Advertiser of the 15th says, the tide "rose five feet and four inches above the lowest mark," which was six inches higher than is reported on the present occasion. At Hilo, the tide of 1868 carried away a bridge and destroyed a fish pond, which was, however, the only damage reported on the islands. The next news from South America, however, revealed the fact that the same day of the tidal disturbance here, there occurred a terrible earthquake on that continent, whereby two cities in Peru and Ecuador were destroyed and 30,000 lives lost, and that simultaneously there were volcanic and earthquake phenomena at New Zealand and Japan. It is possible that in the present instance the outbreak may have occurred in our own domestic laboratory of Hawaii; but at all events we may expect to hear from somewhere in the Pacific that there has been a convulsion of nature, the vibrations of which have affected the ocean tides. The steamer Kilauea, which arrived yesterday morning from windward, reports that the same phenomena of tides were observed at Kawaihae on Hawaii, and at Makee's, Maalaea and Lahaina, on Maui. The hight to which the sea rose and fell at these places is variously stated as from six to twelve feet; but at Kahului, on the windward side of Maui, it is asserted that the sea retired as much as twenty two feet, on a level, leaving bare the usual anchorage of coasters, and in returning rose above the wharf and flooded the sugar storehouses, damaging some sugar in store.

Last evening Capt. Hubbard received a letter from Honolulu under date of May 23d, from which the following extract is taken:

We heard Sunday from Hilo. The tidal wave there did a great deal of damage, washing some 30 or 40 houses out to sea. All of Sisson & Reed's stock of sash and door that the Murray had just unloaded there from San Francisco, and causing the death of some four or five natives, as well as wounding many. A whaler—the bark Pacific—was in the harbor at the time, and lay over on her side as the wave receded; but her anchors held her when it came in. There was no other damage of much account on the Hawaiian coast, so far as we have heard.

Clothing is sold at prices that defy competition at Kohn's corner of First and Morrison streets.

WHO MADE THE PROPOSAL?

[From the Portland Times.]

Dr. Gibson, having made an unprofessional visit to Mrs. Kellicott, walked down to the gate with her daughter Matty.

Matty was twenty years old, and the Doctor was thirty. Her eyes were brown and his were gray. She "had on" a pink calico dress and a white muslin apron; he wore clean-looking linen clothes, and a wide Panama hat.

The gentleman admired the lady's flowers very much, especially the white roses—one of which, by the way, she had tucked under her ear. She inquired with considerable show of interest about the Ruggles children, who had the measles. He told her gravely all about Tommy and Ben, Alice and Kit; and, when he had finished, a silence fell upon them.

Matty was leaning on the gate, looking down the village street. She thought how funny it was for Mr. Scott to paint his new house pea-green with lavender trimmings, and was about to say so to Dr. Gibson, when he stopped her:

He said the very last thing she would have expected to hear. He said:

"Matty, I love you, and want you to marry me!"

The very look in the bright, brown eyes would have told, without a single spoken word, how thoroughly unlooked for such a proposal had been. She had never, in all the years she had known Dr. Gibson, thought for a moment of the possibility of his loving her. She was very sorry, she told him, but she didn't love him one bit, at least in that way. But the tears came into her eyes as she saw the quiet face grow a trifle paler.

"I hardly believed you did care for me," he went on, after a pause. "But I hoped you might yet learn to do it."

"But—but—" said Matty, with embarrassment. "I thought every one knew I was engaged to my cousin Tom."

"Your cousin Tom!" echoed the Doctor. It was impossible to mistake the impression which passed over his face. It was not merely personal regret at the fact she announced, but an impartial disapproval of the match.

He made no comment, however, but directly said:

"Matty, I shall never get over this—I mean that I shall always love you, and, if you need a friend or protector, or—or any one, you'll come to me, won't you?"

She promised and held out her hand to him. He shook it warmly, said "God bless you!" and left her hurriedly.

Matty, still leaning on the wooden gate, watched the retiring figure out of sight. She was very quiet all day, and in the evening propounded this absurd question:

"Tom, what would you do if I should jilt you?"

Tom stroked his downy upper lip, and looked pensive.

"Couldn't say," he replied, after some moments of reflection. "You might try and see."

"Perhaps I will," she replied more soberly than the occasion seemed to warrant. Tom stared very hard at her, but immediately forgot the incident.

Nearly a year passed. One day Mrs. Kellicott's "help" rushed frantically into Dr. Gibson's house, and breathlessly announced to that gentleman that "Mr. Tom would be deader'n a door nail long before the boy got there, if he didn't jump." For two seconds, thinking of him as his rival in Matty's affections, the doctor had half a mind to consign him to the tender mercies of good, stupid old Dr. Wells; but his better nature prevailed, and he started for Mrs. Kellicott's at the very heels of the servant girl.

When he arrived he found Tom in high fever, and delirius. He pronounced it a severe case of typhoid fever, and privately added a doubt that he would recover. He sent to his own house for changes of clothing, prepared to devote himself to the sick man. Matty, too, was unwearied in her work, and, being necessarily much in Tom's room, conequently saw the doctor constantly. He and his patient presented a marked contrast to each other. The latter was captious and pevish to an unheard-of degree, and talked almost incessantly of some unknown being named Kate. On the other hand, Dr. Gibson was so patient and gentle, so strong and helpful, doing so much for Tom, and yet not forgetting one of his accustomed duties, that Matty opened her eyes in admiring astonishment.

One morning as the doctor prepared a sleeping draught for somebody and dictated to Matty a prescription for somebody else, she said with real solicitude:

"Dr. Gibson, you will certainly kill yourself if you keep on at this rate; and 'tis my belief that you are overworked, and you ought to take a rest."

"Do I appear to be at death's door?" he inquired, straightening up, and squaring his shoulders, as if proud of his proportions. "No, Matty," he continued solemnly, though with a merry twinkle in the honest eyes, "work, as Mrs. Bowers frequently remarks, is a pannaky." Matty understood him and colored crimson.

At last Tom was pronounced out of danger, and now the doctor felt that he must remove himself and his belongings from Mrs. Kellicott's house to his own. Matty, hidden by the honeysuckle vines over the piazza, watched him go and cried a little.

The morning after, Tom and Matty sat on the piazza; he reading, or pretending to read, while she sewed diligently. Neither uttered a word for more than half an hour.

Presently Matty shook out the muslin cap she was making, and laid it on her work box, put her little silver thimble aside, and dropped her hands, one over the other, into her lap. Then she looked up.

Tom was staring straight at her. She colored violently, and so, for that matter, did he.

"Tom," she began, "don't be angry. Oh, do forgive me!" She paused trying to think how she could tell him softly; but she went on bluntly, "I want to end our engagement."

"So do I," rejoined he, with difficulty suppressing a whistle. Then both burst into a hearty laugh.

"You see, Mat," said Tom when he could speak, "I love some one else."

Matty appeared to be taken quite by surprise at this declaration.

"But I couldn't help it, indeed I couldn't. She is—"

"She is a young lady whose name is Kate, and her eyes are the blackest, and her cheeks the reddest, and she sings 'Under the Stars' with guitar accompaniment," rattled Matty all in a breath.

It was Tom's turn to stare. "Where did you find all this out?" he asked.

"My dear little bird, etc. I think I'll go and write to my future cousin;" and off she ran glad to escape the questions she feared he might propound.

"But you haven't told me—" he called after her.

"And never shall," she returned, whisking into her own room.

In less than an hour she had reconciled her mother to Fate's decree, and written to Miss Kate Spencer, and persuaded Tom to write also, and had done much toward informing the whole village of her altered prospects.

In due time Tom was married, Matty officiating as first bridesmaid.

Matty, after the excitement of Tom's wedding, bethought herself what she should do. There were her summer dresses to be made up, her music scholars to attend to, the sewing circle and the flowers; but these occupied neither all her time nor thoughts. There ought to have been Dr. Gibson, too, she could not help thinking; but that gentleman, instead of falling at her feet as soon as he heard she was free, paid her no more attention than before. She waited for him, in growing wonder and worry, an eternity—two weeks—and then took measures to bring him to his senses.

She employed only recognized and ladylike means, however. She began by flirting a little with different gentlemen.

There was Will Ellis. This young gentleman had offered himself to our heroine, on an average, four times a year, ever since she was fifteen. She had invariably refused him, decidedly and emphatically; but they were the best of friends in the world. She now told him in so many words, that she would accept all the attention he would offer her during the next week, taking care to remember that this singular declaration proceeded not from any special regard for him but was made in pursuance of some occult design on her part. Forthwith the pair embarked upon what seemed to be the stormiest flirtation Skinnersville ever saw. In the long morning they drove or rowed together; they dined at Mrs. Kellicott's, and immediately after sallied forth on some other excursion. Both were excellent equestrians, and Mattie gloried in galloping over hill and dale, on one of Will's handsome horses. (Will, by-the-by, was the son of a rich man.) Then they drank an early tea on the veranda and spent the evening at the piano or in reading. At the hour of nine, Matty always sent Will home, without a particle of ceremony or regret at his departure. In short, what appeared to Skinnersville as a serious courtship was, in reality, a pure business matter, and so understood between the two parties to it.

This state of affairs continued for a week or so, during which time the Doctor ignored Matty's existence, except as she was the daughter of his dear friend, Mrs. Kellicott. And all the time the girl was raging inwardly at her quandom suitor.

"Why don't he ask me at once again?" she queried, mentally; "I am sure he loves me, and one might see that I love him; but I can't, and I suppose I shall be an old maid."

But the Doctor was not to blame. A man of the world would have seen through Matty's strategem, but he did not; he imagined that she was either trying to drown her disappointment at losing Tom, or had really decided to marry the enamored Will.

The truth occurred to Matty at last. She could hardly believe such stupidity existed in the mind of man; but she determined to try what modest and retiring behavior would effect. So she dismissed Will, and became, to all outward resemblances, a little nun. Still no advance on the Doctor's part. He came and went constantly to the house, however. Matty gave up all hope, finally, of ever coming to a better understanding with him, when something happened.

Dr. Gibson dropped in one morning, when Mrs. Kellicott sat sewing on the pleasant veranda in the cool, refreshing breeze.

"You musn't come here," she called, as he tied his horse to the hitching-post. "My work requires my undivided attention; besides, you'll step on the ruffles. You may go and help Matty, if you like."

That young woman was making pies in the kitchen. She saw the Doctor coming round the corner of the house, gave a hurried glance at the bright bottom of a tin pan she was holding, found herself presentable, and greeted him composedly. She was very glad to see him, she said. Wouldn't he come in?

No, he wouldn't come in, the day was so beautiful. He would just stand on the little brick pavement under the window, and lean over the sill.

So there he stood under the grape-vine trellis, with a little golden sunshine falling over his hair and shoulders. Matty observed that he looked thoroughly unlover-like, and concluded that he didn't intend to propose. She also noticed a rip in his coat, and wondered who would mend it for him.

Some way the talk veered round from the weather to Woman's Rights.

Matty, on this, spoke up.

She didn't at all believe in the second hand influence which reached the ballot box through the agency of husbands and brothers. "When I vote," she said, "I want to march to the polls and put in my own vote my own self."

"What a pretty spectacle you'd make, Matty, with that rolling pin in your hand, and—"

"I'm not at all sure that I want to vote," she interrupted; "but I just would like to make some laws, that's all."

"Well, you might petition the legislature," suggested the Doctor, gravely.

"Oh, they're not legal laws; only social customs and usages. I'll tell you just what I mean." She laid the rolling pin aside, with an emphatic bang, placed her floury arms akimbo, looked very earnest and determined, and quite regardless of the fact that she and Dr. Gibson were in love with each other. "Now, at a party, when a lady sits alone in a stuff-chair all the evening, not dancing, simply because she hasn't any partner, and can't ask any one, oh, you know, Dr. Gibson, you know—"

"How it is myself!" interpolated he.

"How it was at Mrs. Campbell's the other night. If I had been Anna Radcliffe, or Dora Collard, I'd have asked some of you men to dance with me."

"Then you think women should have the privilege of asking for whatever they wish?" he retorted, with half a smile.

She answered that she thought just that.

"Well, Matty, I quite agree with you. I not only think they should have this right in such a case as you mention, but also in more serious affairs. For instance, women might, with perfect propriety, make proposals of marriage."

Now, such an idea had never entered Matty's foolish little head, and she seized the sugar-box with great embarrassment. The Doctor went on, with much gravity:

"I am aware that it would be a very unconventional proceeding, and I am afraid that no woman will ever be wise enough to take the initiative; and yet I am persuaded that in many instances it would be the most natural and beautiful thing she could do."

He was looking, unconsciously up at the blue sky shining through the filagree work of vine leaves about him. It was evident he was thinking in the abstract only, but a faltering little "Dr. Gibson" recalled him to the concrete. And there stood Matty, smiling, blushing, dimpling, ready to extinguish herself in her brown gingham apron.

"Dr. Gibson, I like you ever so much!" she faltered, bravely, but breathlessly.

The doctor jumped through an open window, and made his proposal over again.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

MONDAY EVENING, June 4, 1877.

Gold in New York, 105¾

Legal Tenders in Portland—buying 94; selling, 95.

Silver Coin—4½@5 per cent. discount.

There is a very reasonable amount of activity in business circles observable, with but few important changes to note either in the drift of trade or the general tendency of rates, terms or prices. The demand for financial favors is quite large if considered with the average of the year, but with reference to the season, is not quite up to former years. This is owing to the fact that the continued rains have somewhat retarded trade in several branches, and checked the marketing of the spring wool clip. The run of salmon has, especially in the early part of the season, been short, and the requirements from that direction have been of less extent than was anticipated. So with these circumstances and the fact that the surplus of grain and flour for export in the State is well nigh exhausted, the supply of funds has been rather in excess of the call recently, and the market is now flush with capital seeking opportunities for investment. A very considerable amount, which has hitherto been regularly used in stock speculations here, as well as in San Francisco, is being turned to other less exciting but safer channels of business.

Miscellaneous.

A dispatch from Callao dated May 19, which comes to us by mail from the East, states that the ships Uncle Toby, 1,305 tons, and Geneva, 1,565 tons, were totally wrecked by the tidal wave at the guano islands May 10. Both vessels were fully insured at Boston offices. The details of the disaster have so far been very unsatisfactory, and no full details can be expected until the arrival of the steamship China from Panama at San Francisco.

The wheat shipping business from the Pacific coast for the harvest year is now about closed, the surplus within reach either in this State or California being almost insignificant.

Emmet Wells' last circular on the hop trade says: "Most of the large brewers are stocked for the season. The new crop is coming on finely and gives promise of the heaviest yield since 1868. California and the Territories alone are expected to grow between 40,000 and 60,000 bales. With all these facts taken into account, we think the sooner holders unload the better. Quotations—New Yorks, choice to fancy, 15 to 17c; New Yorks, common to prime, 10 to 13c; Eastern, 10 to 16c; Wisconsins, 8 to 12c; Yearlings, 6 to 10c; all growths, 4 to 6c; Californians, (nominal) 12 to 17c; Oregon (nominal), 12 to 17c."

The Direction of the Bureau Veritas has just published the following statistics of maritime disasters, reported during the month of March, 1877, concerning all flags: Sailing vessels reported lost—53 English, 17 American, 13 French, 12 German, 10 Dutch, 9 Norwegian, 8 Italian, 7 Austrian, 4 Greek, 4 Swedish, 2 Danish, 1 Belgian, 1 Turkish, and 10 of which the nationality is unknown—total, 152. In this number are included 31 vessels reported missing. Steamers reported lost—3 English, 1 Belgian, and 1 French—total, 5.

The trade in home-grown fruits in this market is very large, and the abundance of berries, cherries and other early products of this kind is such that prices are very low. The crop of all such fruits this year is larger than ever before grown in the State.

Our reports from the interior of the State concerning the growing wheat and oat crops continue to be of the most favorable character. The earlier sowed fields are now about heading, and the growth everywhere has been great, especially during the month of May. As is certain in regard to fruit, so also is grain almost sure to be a heavier crop than ever before in Oregon.

Eastern Freights and Markets.

NEW YORK, June 4.—This has been the most quiet day at the wharves of Pacific coast ships that has been experienced for many weeks, and there has been scarcely anything doing. In general rates remain as before noted, but in view of the quiet business on the coast next season, and the fact that a large quantity of goods are now on the way, shippers are not anxious to ship at current figures, and ask concessions, which agents do not feel like granting, as vessels now in the berth were taken at figures equal to rates asked from shippers. Shipments and offerings still chiefly of heavy class goods, and light freight is wanted, hence bids have been made for a lot of empty packages which are very desirable in absence of other light freight to close out. With ships suitable for this trade more plenty, that is in absence of any other business, and in view of improved freights at San Francisco, shipowners are more desirous of accepting business, but as yet their views are a little above those of agents. However, the latter can afford to wait a while, as all lines are well supplied. Merchandise markets generally very dull. Flour firmer, under better export demand, and several sales upon which negotiations have been pending since last week have foreclosed. Wheat very dull, heavy exporters out of the market, as grades suitable for sailing vessels are held too high, and No. 3 wheat is not dry enough to risk by sail, and steamer rates are too high to admit of shipping in that manner. Refined sugars dull and easier; white grades, hard and soft, being most depressed. Teas unchanged, and better demand for low grades of Japan. Hides very quiet and market weakening. Pork in better demand for export at a decline at 10@15c.

Liverpool Markets.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS
OF

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

In the Treatment of Chronic Disease,

Positive Proof of his Wonderful Skill.

Testimony that Cannot be Contradicted.

Reliable Witnesses Testifying What he has Done for Them.

Perfect Cures where all other Treatment had Failed.

Crowds Coming from all Parts of the Country to Visit Him.

The Following Certificates Speak for Themselves:

TO DR. PAUL M. BRENAN—

For the past year and a half I have been suffering from Nervous and General Debility, Kidney Disease, Loss of Flesh and Strength, dizziness in the head and a constant pain through the back and loins. I became so debilitated and broken down that I was unfitted for business; I have been to Victoria and all over the coast under medical treatment for the past nine months, without receiving any benefit whatever, and had almost given up hopes of ever recovering, until I came under your treatment, about seven weeks ago. From the very first your treatment seemed to work like a charm, and I constantly improved from the beginning. I have gained 14 pounds of flesh, and I am now, thanks to your skillful treatment, perfectly well, and am able to return to my business on the Snohomish. JAMES KING.

Seattle, March 31, 1877.

To the People: I have been troubled with chronic Nasal Catarrh for years, the disease being so aggravated that there was constantly an effusion of matter passing down into my throat behind the pallate and down through my nostrils.

My nose became depressed between the eyes and swollen on each side. I was told by physicians that it was a polypus; that some of the blood vessels were involved and that the removal would endanger my life by hemorrhage. I became so bad that I made up my mind that I must have immediate relief or die.

As a last resort I applied to Dr. Paul M. Brenan, who, after a moment's examination, determined what to do. He said the nasal bone was involved and diseased, and that there would have to be a portion of it removed. He at once removed the bone tumor containing the ulcer; also the diseased portion of bone and patuotory gland and cured the catarrh. I am now perfectly well and as free from disease as ever I was in my life.

THOMAS D. MURPHY.

Seattle, April 5th, 1877.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN—Dear Sir: I take great pleasure in stating for the benefit of those who are afflicted with any chronic disease, that I am now a well man. For the past two years I have been under the medical treatment of different physicians, from which I have received no benefit. I have been suffering with general and nervous debility, a difficulty in my stomach, and at times dizziness and severe headache, a most incapacitating me for work. About three weeks ago I put myself under your care, and I can say with delight that I am cured and feel like myself again, after having partaken of your skillful treatment. To me now, labor seems a pleasure. I say this much, hoping it will be the means of attracting the suffering to you who can relieve and cure them.

Your's Truly, JOHN BALLARD,
Employed at Colman's Saw Mill, Seattle.

[I will not publish any cures performed by me unless by the full consent of the parties.]

PAUL M. BRENAN.

THE PAPYROGRAPH

IS AN EXTRAORDINARY INVENTION FOR printing copies by the thousands from a single autograph writing or drawing. From one writing by this process a thousand permanent facsimile impressions of circulars, price lists, specifications, examination papers, assessment notices, etc., may be printed in an ordinary copying press, upon any description of paper. Copies may be taken direct from the writing without any of the usual operations of inking, rolling, transferring or type-setting. A proof impression may be produced within five minutes after a manuscript has been completed, and be afterwards multiplied at the rate of five hundred an hour, at an infinitessimal cost.

One Thousand Copies

May be produced from a single sheet of Papyrograph Paper, and a single application of ink, at an expense of four cents. It possesses over photography the advantages of an Autograph Letter, besides admitting of illustrations without the expense of wood cuts. It allows autograph letters to go through the mail as third class matter. It is invaluable to any business. It can be seen in operation at the office of the agent for Oregon.

The Silver Question Discussed.

The Tribune publishes a minority re the silver commission. The report s condemns the use of silver as the pri medium of exchange, denouncing th called double standard as an illusion ar possibility. The recommendations c movement include the making of silv
as legal tender for any sum not exc $20, and to any amount in payment of to the government except duties on im coins to be issued only in exchange f and two dollar notes which are then destroyed. This and the coining o pieces almost exactly equivalent of the p sterling and cancellation of $3,000,0 paper money each month are the pri features of the plan.

The Times editorially says the President purposely misrepresented or he is prepa
